Duration 3-4 Days

Overview

- The students will be able to identify the ways in which the Revolutionary War (4th grade standard) has shaped our Civic Participation and the roles of the government in America. They will then compare America’s government to the government in parts of the world that we have previously learned about. Students will explain the relationship between those in power and the individual citizens in a democracy, a dictatorship, and a monarchy. Students will also analyze the pros and cons of each system of government, specifically from a citizen’s point of view. In a democracy, the power of those in authority is limited because the people retain the supreme power. In a dictatorship, a ruler or small group with absolute power over the people holds power, often through force. Monarchy is a government in which authority over the people is retained through a trade of allegiance.

- All parts to this government unit can stand alone and can be taught as individual lessons. Lessons can be used to meet the individual needs of students as the teacher sees fit.

- While technology is encouraged to enhance student learning, lessons can be utilized and taught without having access to technology.
Ohio’s New Learning Standards
• Government #12
  o Democracies, dictatorships and monarchies are categories for understanding the relationship between those in power or authority and citizens.

Historical Background

The Constitution provides the framework for the government of the United States. After the Revolutionary War, which was fought from 1775-1783, the Americans needed to set up a system of government to protect the freedoms they had just won. The first system of government that the Americans set up was the Articles of Confederation. There was a flaw with this system, as it was too weak of a government to get a new country up and running. American’s called another meeting to discuss the system of government. This was called the Constitutional Convention. The different states had different ideas of what the new government should do which led to many debates and discussions to come up with a plan that everyone could agree with. During a very lengthy process, the delegates were finally able to agree upon a new government with a document they called the Constitution.

This constitution was formed in order to have a strong national government. They did, however, create a system of checks and balances so that the government did not get too strong. They did this by creating three branches, each of which had different responsibilities. Throughout the years, the Constitution has changed and evolved as the United States has. Ultimately, this form of government has been valued and preserved by Americans and is the system of government we use to this day.

Enduring Understandings/ Essential Questions

• Enduring Understanding: Democracies must balance the need to establish and maintain order with the need to maintain and protect freedom of the individual.

• Essential Questions:
  o How does governmental authority affect citizens’ rights?
  o What role do citizens play in government?
Instructional Strategies

Lesson One: An Overview of Types of Government (60 minutes)
1. Introduce the topic of government by reading excerpts from picture books about democracy, monarchy and dictatorships. After reading clips from each book, students will immediately respond to how they would feel if they lived in that type of government run civilization using the reflection sheet. Brainstorm with students what type of role citizens would play in each of the different governments. A list of books to use can be found in Appendix #1. The reflection sheets are found in Appendix #2.

2. Students will be placed in pairs and rotate through 6 stations. At each station, students will have a card that either contains a scenario, a political cartoon, or a photograph. After analyzing their cards, they will discuss and answer the questions that go along with their cards. When finished, students will rotate to the next card, until they have completed all the cards. Cards for stations can be found in Appendix #3.

3. Share cards and discuss students’ reactions to each station. Students’ responses to each card may vary. This is okay as they are just starting to learn and digest the information.

4. Pass out Government Vocabulary to students. This can be found in Appendix #4. Have students create the vocabulary foldable by folding paper in half (hot dog style) and cutting along the black lines. The end result will be a flip-book with the definitions hiding under the vocabulary word. An answer key can be found in Appendix #5.

5. Have students use the website www.wordcentral.com to look up each of the vocabulary words. On the vocabulary cards, the correct definition to use is indicated after the word.

Lesson Two: A Deeper Look at Types of Government (60 minutes)
1. Have students complete an entrance ticket on their way into class. Appendix #6. Students will recap everything they have learned/recall from Day One lesson. Discuss what students remember.

2. Put students into groups of three and explain to students that they will be taking a closer look at different types of government while completing a web quest. Their task is to research the following three types of government: Democracy, Dictatorship, and Monarchy. They will then decide what form of government you want to have in their new community! Webquest can be found in Appendix #7.

3. When students are finished with web quest, each group will present to the class (informally) what type of government they chose and why.

Lesson Three: Putting it All Together (60-90 minutes)
1. Review what students have learned about Democracies, Dictatorships, and Monarchies using Government Smart Board, Appendix #8. While going through the smart board, have students take notes about each form of government, Appendix #9. These notes will be a helpful reference tool as they complete their tic-tac-toe assessment. An answer key for the notes can be found in Appendix #10.

2. Introduce Tic-Tac-Toe assessment to students, Appendix #11. Explain to students that they will have to complete THREE total activities, one from each category.

IN CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness...

Democracies, Dictatorships and Monarchies, Oh My!
An Inquiry Based Webquest

Imagine this:
You and your friends are on a great cruise ship, when SMASH! Your cruise ship has hit an iceberg and it is sinking fast. The only option you and the people on the ship have is to swim one mile to shore. You and around 20 people are all stranded on an island with no food or water. All the people are tired and upset. Someone needs to step up and lead the group. Who will it be? How will they lead?

Your Task:
Your task is to research the following three types of government: Democracy, Dictatorship, and Monarchy. You will then decide what form of government you want to have in your new community! Think about what the pros and cons of each type of government might be.

Step #1:
• You will be assigned to a group of three.
• Within that group, each member will be responsible for researching a type of government: Democracy, Monarchy, or Dictatorship.

Step #2
• Once each member has a topic, use the links on my porta portal page to begin your research. You can ONLY use links on my website!
  o Go to www.lakelocal.org and click on “Staff”
  o Click on “Blogs and Teacher Sites” o Click on “Mr. Conley and Mrs. Wickham” o Click on “Social Studies”
  o Then click the link to “Mrs. Wickham’s Porta Portal”
  o Once you are on my porta portal, look for the Government Tab
Step #3

- Each person needs to fill out this research chart for their government. You must have at least 6 facts about your government. Then, exchange information about the other two types of government with your partners.

Step #4

- Once everyone has the information in the charts, your group will decide which type of government you would want to implement on your new island and state two reasons why you chose that form of government.
